

Lighting

Recreate the warmth of home with stylish lamps and floor lighting.

Before move-in day, a dorm's fluorescent-lit rooms, prehistoric hallways, and less than desirable bathrooms, suffice it to say, look like a scene out of The Shining. But after a long summer is over and the heartbeat of campus begins to pulse with budding business people, future doctors, and emerging entrepreneurs, the dorm rooms come to life. Students move in with their dorm room furniture, their essentials, and dorm room string lights, and all is right in the world again.

Not sure what to do with the lighting? Dorm lights can be harsh, so it's best to bring in your own. Dorm room lamps and dorm string lights are the perfect remedy for bad lighting and will help you recreate the warmth of home. Looking to achieve a cozy vibe? String up some twinkle lights behind your bed that are high in style and easy on the eyes. All-nighters call for a substantial source of lighting too. Go sleek and polished with a brushed steel dorm desk lamp or comfortably classic with a traditional, swing arm desk lamp.

For the novice decorators, lighting is just as important as the decor. Plus, they're are some pretty cool dorm lamps out there that are your best bet for illuminating a room without having to flip the switch on the wall. (No thanks, overhead lights.) Whether you're going all-out stylish with pendant lights and a lava lamp, or just need a practical dorm floor lamp for studying, up the dorm room lights ante and create a warm, inviting space to live. Just like home.

Wall Art

Empty walls? Breathe life into your space with creative prints and bold wall art.

Planning for college move-in day takes work. There's research for furniture, then decor decisions, then all the purchasing. So, once you've got your classic comforter, storage solutions, and decor accents for your dorm room, what comes next? If you're looking to insert some personality into your space, decorate the walls. Dorm wall decor, like tasteful college posters and wall hangings, coupled with the rest of your design scheme is a winning combination for the best room on the hall.

Don't have the budget to splurge on something big? Combine new pieces with ones from your bedroom at home for an eclectic look. A mix of vintage and new dorm room wall decor sounds just about Pinterest-perfect. For budding photographers, seek inspo from your Instagram feed and turn it into art. Beautifully filtered photos framed in a gallery wall setting will look fabulous IRL. Bored of plain white walls? Give them life with temporary wall decals and wall posters that complement the rest of your decor.

A large piece of artwork might not be an option for a college student, but dorm posters are. They're affordable, easy to swap out, and showcase style perfectly. Channel your inner diva with a black-and-white fashion themed poster, or wear your team pride on your wall with a sports poster. Then, elevate the look with a simple frame to achieve an "I buy art" vibe. With the right dorm room posters and dorm wall decor, your room will feel as comfortable as home.

Seaweed Snacks

When it comes to savory satisfaction, seaweed can't be beat. Shop seaweed snacks at Jet.com and enjoy the benefits of seaweed all the time!

Not familiar with seaweed as a savory treat? Seaweed snacks aren't exactly the same as the seaweed soup or the seaweed wrap you eat on sushi. Nori seaweed, which is used in seaweed chips, is a great alternative to chips. (Now we're talking.) We've got a huge seaweed selection from SeaSnax, GimMe seaweed, Annie Chun's and more. Eat seaweed chips straight out of the bag, throw seaweed in a smoothie for some added seaweed nutrition, or crumble your Nori seaweed up and sprinkle them on top of your salad. The dried seaweed snack possibilities are endless.

Sick of being told your favorite snack you thought was nutritious isn't healthy at all? If you're into seaweed snacks, luckily you don't have to worry! Dried seaweed is the snack of the moment and it's not going away anytime soon, because the seaweed benefits of nori seaweed are pretty plentiful. Seaweed nutrition facts include high levels of vitamin A and C, and it's super low in calories. A seaweed snack is munchy, crunchy, and thankfully guilt-free. Hey, we'll take some of that seaweed nutrition any day.

Wondering where can I buy seaweed? Seaweed chips pretty trendy now, so you can find them just about anywhere. Especially here. Drop a GimMe Organic Roasted Seaweed Snack or Ocean's Halo Seaweed Snacks in Maui Onion in your cart, and you won't regret it. We've got lots of other flavors, too. You can also find seaweed snacks that are vegan and seaweed chips options that are organic and gluten-free here, too. Now that takes seaweed nutrition to another level.

Sounds like that seaweed nutrition is just what you need in an afternoon snack. So whether you're a roasted seaweed pro or just trying nori seaweed out for the first time, we've got plenty seaweed choices for you. Seaweed chips and so many other snackstoo — chips and pretzels, cookies, and more. While you're at it, browse the rest of our grocery selection for whatever else you need. Free shipping over $35 plus 2-day delivery on thousands of essentials equals an hour and a half you just got back.
